

NASTE Season 2012 – Race #5

January 7, 2012

Hemi Heights Raceway Park Speedway, Portland, Oregon

The NASTE 55 Chevys returned to duty for the fifth race of the NASTE 2012 Championship.

Jeff Courtney's 1/24 scale four lane routed track hosted the race for the group of racers.

Dorothy "The Hammer" provided us with some of her finest calorie work to date. Her delicious cakes molded in shapes of cars and trucks were just too cool!

As for the racing, three minute heats were run which allowed the new racers time to adjust to the challenging cars, and allowed the veterans time to re-familiarize themselves with the Radioshack power delivery.

Typical with the NASTE 55s there was some great crashin' and bashin', highlighted by well-placed nerfs, and just plain "take-outs".

Surprising to many of us was "The Hammer's" amazing (totally out of character I might add) super clean, super-fast, precision racing style that took her to a great finish. The room was abuzz with comments of "is this the new Hammer?"; "Will a new nickname be required?"; "Where has our beloved Hammer gone?". It would appear the inevitable has finally happened; The Hammer is now a full-blown racer!

But even with her excellent performance she as well as every else was no match for the uncatchable Dave Smith.

Dave took the win with Terry Abbott and Bill Bostic in a tie for second. As usual racing the NASTE '55 Chevy's resulted in a very close field, narrowing the gap between the experienced racers and the less experienced.
